Title: Sir William Miller, Lord Glenlee
Date: ca.1805-1815
Primary Maker: Henry Raeburn
Medium: oil on canvas
Description: Seated to the right, full-length, nearly full-face, the body three-quarters left. His left leg is crossed over the right, his forearms rest on the arms of his chair; in the right hand is a pair of spectacles. Clean-shaven, with thin white hair, bushing over the ears. White stock, and black suit, stockings, and shoes. A red curtain, hanging from the top left corner, falls behind his head and shoulders; the seat of the chair is dull red, and on the left a table, carrying books and papers, is covered by a red cloth. Beyond the table, the embrasure of an open window; sky and landscape to the left. Two brown, leather-bound volumes lean against the tablecloth below the sitter's left foot. Folio volumes in recessed shelves seen behind his right arm.
Dimensions: 83 3/4 x 60 1/4 in. (212.7 x 153 cm.)